Property Details

This three-bedroom end-of-terrace Victorian property offers a rare opportunity for cash buyers or experienced investors to acquire a home with significant potential. Requiring full renovation, it provides a blank canvas to create a tailored living space or capitalise on its investment possibilities. Currently in need of extensive work, the property features flexible accommodation that can be redesigned and extended to suit modern living (subject to planning permission). Its end-of-terrace position ensures extra natural light and side access, while the cellar offers additional space for storage. The rear garden, though requiring attention, could be transformed into a private outdoor retreat. Situated in a well-connected neighborhood, the property is a short walk from Brixton tube station, Stockwell station, and local amenities including Brixton Village, The Ritzy cinema, and Clapham High Street, while green spaces such as Brockwell Park and Clapham Common are also nearby.
